Robert Clifton Burns, senior counsel in Crowell & Moring’s Washington D.C. office, focuses on export controls, economic sanctions, customs, national security, and the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act. He represents clients in France, Germany, the Netherlands, Australia, and the United States.

Mr. Burns counsels clients on compliance matters, handling internal investigations, voluntary disclosures, and criminal defense. In addition, he represents M&A clients in international transactions with national security implications before the Committee on Foreign Investment in the United States. His clients span a range of industries, including medical devices, military equipment, financial services, travel and hospitality, and agriculture.

Mr. Burns’ export control work includes matters involving the Export Administration Regulations administered by the Department of Commerce, the International Traffic in Arms Regulations administered by the State Department, and the country-based economic sanctions program administered by the Office of Foreign Assets Control of the Treasury Department.
