Dr. Juneseok Lee's research focuses primarily on drinking water infrastructure analytics, premise plumbing issues, and water distribution systems. His work has been supported by major grants from funding bodies such as the National Science Foundation, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, the California Water Service Company, and Hewlett-Packard. Dr. Lee has about 70+ technical publications, including articles in highly respected journals and conference proceedings, and has delivered numerous presentations at national and international conferences on the environment, water and infrastructure engineering. In 2018 and 2020, he won the Best Paper Awards from the American Water Works Association (AWWA)'s Distribution and Plant Operations Division. Dr. Lee, who has a Ph.D. in civil and environmental engineering from Virginia Tech, is a registered professional engineer of civil engineering in California and a board-certified Diplomate, Water Resources Engineer (D.WRE) from the American Academy of Water Resources Engineer. He currently serves on the editorial board/associate editor of the ASCE Journal of Water Resources Planning and Management and AWWA Water Science. He was the recipient of the 2021 Environmental Water Resources Institute's (EWRI) Service to the Profession Award.
