John Gardella, co-owner of CMBG3 Law, is a trial attorney with more than 19 years of environmental experience. As chair of the firm's environmental and PFAS practice groups, he guides companies through state, federal and European Union compliance obligations related to PFAS.

He represents companies in class action, pollution, injury and medical monitoring cases. Gardella regularly consults with companies conducting PFAS risk, footprint, or compliance audits, and assists with developing PFAS risk mitigation plans.

Recognized for his work in environmental-related matters, he was named one of the 20 Go-To Lawyers for Environmental Law in 2023 by Massachusetts Lawyers Weekly. A frequent speaker and author, Gardella is regularly sought for his thought leadership by news media, including Bloomberg, the Wall Street Journal, and the Washington Post.
