Josh Schorr is the technical assistance coordinator and an accessibility specialist in the Office of Technical and Information Services at the U.S. Access Board. He oversees the agency's technical assistance and guidance programs.

Previously, he was training coordinator for a year. In 2019, he began his role as an accessibility specialist, providing technical assistance, training on the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) and the Architectural Barriers Act design standards, and future rulemaking, in addition to his work on the Access Board guides.

Schorr began working for the Access Board in 2010 as a contractor, creating animations to help explain ADA standards. Soon after, the agency hired him to work on guidance documents.
